

Stathis Detorakis, MD

Friday, 28th of May 2021, 09.15 – 10.00 CET

This is a short journey through time of the island Crete, a place so unique, located in southeastern Mediterranean between Europe, Africa and Asia has always been a crossroad of civilizations. Its history is lost in the mists of time, from the Neolithic Age, the Minoan era and the various invaders through the ages to the complicated relationships of Crete, both political and social, until the union with Greece in 1913 and modern times.